

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

PainPathways*' New Website Receives Praise and Unites the Pain Community.

WINSTON-SALEM, North Carolina – April 11, 2013 – PainPathways continues its call for feedback on its new interactive website. Respondents will be entered to win annual subscriptions or a resource gift set containing signed copies of pain management materials from leaders in the pain community.

Ken Taylor, executive director of Power of Pain, says of the website, “I love the pain resources section. There is information for patients and caregivers, and on different conditions. It is very well organized and comprehensive. I also love how you can view the current edition online.”

The website’s homepage offers current and archived articles, pain information and resources, a special section for physicians and a wellness blog. Fresh content not found in the magazine is available in the Only Online section, including book reviews, pain quizzes and celebrity pain follow-ups.

FREE Digital Edition

PainPathways' free digital edition, at www.painpathways.org, provides links to additional content and information that help readers on their paths to wellness.

The SPRING issue is online now and offers these regular features:

- News You Can Use
- Caregiver Pathways
- Ask the Doctor
- Clinical Trials Directory
- Events Calendar and Resource Guide

Be a PainPathways Partner.

Up to fifty patient education copies of the spring issue can be mailed at no charge to health care offices. Call 336-714-8389 for more details, or visit www.painpathways.org/subscribe to purchase your annual subscription today.

###

CONTACT:

Carol Harper

Managing Editor

carol.harper@painpathways.org

410-435-9666

PainPathways Magazine, based in Winston-Salem, North Carolina, is a quarterly print and digital resource for patients, physicians and caregivers who manage acute, chronic or cancer pain. To subscribe for home or office, visit www.painpathways.org or find us on Facebook, Pinterest, Twitter and LinkedIn.