

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

PainPathways Magazine to Host Two Facebook Chats during National Pain Awareness Month; the first is LIVE from PAINWeek in Las Vegas, September 4

WINSTON-SALEM, North Carolina – August 26, 2013. Social media's blessing is connecting people, instantly and easily, to helpful information and resources. For people in pain LIVE Facebook chats offer participants from around the world instant access to leading pain experts. Often, participants learn from exchange ideas with each other.

In recognition of September's National Pain Awareness Month, PainPathways Magazine will host two LIVE Facebook Chats to raise pain awareness and promote idea exchange with the pain community.

1. RSD/CRPS, Wednesday, LIVE from PAINWeek in Las Vegas

September 4, 8pm ET

RSD/CRPS expert Barby Ingle, founder of the Power of Pain Foundation, will provide information and welcomes questions from people in pain, caregivers, physicians and health care professionals during this one-hour session.

2. How to Locate Resources & Raise Pain Awareness Within Your Family & Community

Thursday, September 24, 8pm ET

U.S. Pain Foundation founder and director Paul Gileno will share the best resources for people in pain and their families, and effective ways to raise pain awareness within one's community.

Visit PainPathway's Facebook page to participate:
<https://www.facebook.com/PainPathwaysMagazine>

Order September's SPECIAL National Pain Awareness Month ISSUE at www.painpathways.org. Subscriptions and gift subscriptions are 50% off during September.

###

CONTACT:

Carol Harper
Managing Editor
carol.harper@painpathways.org
410-435-9666

PainPathways, based in Winston-Salem, North Carolina, is a quarterly print and digital resource for patients, physicians and caregivers who manage acute, chronic or cancer pain. To subscribe for home or office, visit www.painpathways.org or find us on Facebook, Pinterest and LinkedIn.

